
The Old World League

FIELD MANUAL

Warhammer Fantasy · Seventh Edition · Members Only

A complete guide to the muster, the maps and the muck — by decree of the Grand Marshal.

*Keep this scroll close. Lose it, and you shall answer to the Council.
(Whatever the website happens to be named this week, this is the same league.)*

What's inside

New to the muster? Read “Enlisting” first, then wander. Everything below is a tab along the top of the site.

- 1. Enlisting & signing in — getting through the gate
- 2. Finding your way around — the tabs, top to bottom
- 3. The Town Square — your home page
- 4. Calls to Arms — posting availability & answering it
- 5. The League — tables, points & fixtures
- 6. The Grand Tourney — cup brackets
- 7. Battles & battle reports — recording your games
- 8. Might — the skill rating, explained
- 9. Army ranks — climbing the ladders
- 10. The Council — proposals & voting
- 11. The Gallery — photos, paintings & comments
- 12. The Hall of Fame — past champions & cup winners
- 13. The Library & the Herald — documents & FAQs
- 14. Your profile & settings — avatar, steed, army, emails
- 15. Email notifications — what lands in your inbox
- 16. For the Grand Marshal — the Admin chambers

1 · Enlisting & signing in

The League is members only, so first you must enlist.

Enlist (first time)

- On the login screen, choose Enlist.
- Give your name (how you'll appear on the Muster Roll), your email, a watchword (password), and pick the army you're currently fielding.
- Confirm the watchword and you're in.

Note — The very first soul to enlist becomes the Grand Marshal (the administrator). Everyone after that is a regular member until promoted.

Sign in (returning)

- Choose Sign in, enter your email and watchword.
- Your name must be unique on the roll — if it's taken, pick another.

First load after signing in pulls everything down for you; give it a breath and the realm fills in.

2 · Finding your way around

Along the top of the site is a row of tabs. On a phone, tap the menu button to reveal them.

Tab	What you'll find
Town Square	Your home page: the reigning champion, the next gathering, your fixtures, calls to arms, the Muster Roll, quotes and recent photos.
League	League tables, standings and fixture lists.
Grand Tourney	Knock-out cup brackets.
Hall of Fame	Past champions and cup winners, by trophy.
Council	Proposals and votes on the rules of the realm.
Battles	Scheduled games, battle reports and the full standings.
Gallery	Photos and painted miniatures, with votes and comments.
Library	House rules, documents and links.
Herald	Frequently bellowed questions, plus how Might and ranks work.
Admin	The Grand Marshal's chambers (admins only).

Your name sits top-right on every page — click it to jump to your own profile. Sign out is right beside it.

3 · The Town Square (home)

Your landing page and the heartbeat of the club.

- Next gathering — a banner showing the upcoming social: who’s hosting, where, and when. (The Grand Marshal sets this.)
- Champion of the Old World — the reigning league champion, crowned in gold.
- Your fixtures — games scheduled for you, with dates (or “TBC”).
- Calls to Arms — who’s looking for a game (see next section).
- Muster Roll — every member, their headline rank and army.
- Quotes & photos — the latest sayings and snapshots. Click a photo to enlarge it and leave a comment.

4 · Calls to Arms (availability)

The simplest way to get a game.

Post your availability

- On the Town Square, click I'm available.
- Pick a date, the type of game (friendly, league or cup), and add a note if you like (points, place, etc.).
- Post it — your call appears for everyone, and an email goes out to members who want them.

Answer a call

- See a game you fancy? Click I'm up for it.
- A fixture is created automatically between the two of you, and the person who posted gets an email letting them know.

Tip — You can switch these emails off in your profile settings (the “someone accepted your game” note always comes through, since it’s aimed only at you).

5 · The League

League tables track wins, draws, losses and points across a season.

- Each league shows a sortable table; Pts is worked out automatically from the league's win/draw values.
- A league can carry its own charter — points rules, house rules and FAQs.

Building the fixtures (Grand Marshal)

Two ways, on each league:

- Generate fixtures — auto round-robin: everyone plays everyone once, split into Round 1, 2, 3... Dates and points left blank to fill in later.
- Build by hand — draw the pairings yourself. Add a row per game (Round number, Combatant A vs B, optional date — blank for “TBC”), then create them all at once. Perfect for a hand-made draw.

Either way, fixtures appear grouped by round in the Battles tab, where the Grand Marshal can add a note to each round (e.g. “750 pts · special rules”).

6 · The Grand Tourney

For knock-out competitions. Create a tourney with a blank bracket or a ready-made template (8 or 16 combatants), then fill in the pairings and results as the rounds are fought to the Final.

7 · Battles & battle reports

When the dice stop rolling, record what happened.

Schedule a battle

The Grand Marshal can schedule a one-off game (combatants, date, points, type, scenario, notes) from the Battles tab.

File a battle report

Anyone can file a report. Click File battle report and record:

- The two combatants and the armies they fielded.
- The result — victory to A or B, or a draw — and the margin (marginal, victory, or defiant). Margin nudges the Might rating.
- A result detail (e.g. “Massacre, +840 VP”) and the Moment of the match.
- Hall of Infamy entries — immortalise heroic dice failures (who rolled how many ones).

Casual games — Tick “Casual game” and the result is kept out of Might, league points and records — but it still counts towards your army rank (dedication, not skill).

You can delete a report you filed; the Grand Marshal can delete any. Deleting affects the ladder, so there’s a confirm step.

8 · Might (the skill rating)

Might is the League's skill rating — an ELO score. Everyone starts level; beat a stronger opponent and you gain more, lose to a weaker one and you drop more. The victory margin scales the swing. Casual games don't touch it.

Might is separate from league points (which reward turning up and winning a season) and from your army rank (which rewards games played).

9 · Army ranks

Your rank is a badge of dedication, not skill — it rewards rolling dice. Win, lose, draw or casual, every battle you file counts.

- There are ten ranks, and every army has its own ladder, themed to its lore (an Empire general climbs from Stableboy to Lord-General of the Empire; a Dwarf from Beardling to King under the Mountain).
- Ranks build separately per army — ten games with the Empire and twenty with the Dwarfs earns a different rank in each.
- Your headline rank (on the Muster Roll and your profile) is the army you’ve set as your own — or, if you’ve never fielded it, your most-played army.

Tier	Games played
1 (start)	0
2	1
3	3
4	6
5	10
6	15
7	22
8	30
9	42
10 (top)	55

Your full rank per army is shown on your profile under “Battle record by army”.

10 · The Council

Where the rules of the realm are debated.

- Anyone can raise a proposal — a title and the detail of what you're suggesting.
- Members vote for or against.
- The Grand Marshal can seal a proposal (adopt it) or strike it (reject it). You can withdraw your own open proposal.

11 · The Gallery

The club's picture-book.

- Upload a photo with a caption. Choose whether it's a general snapshot or a painted miniature.
- Click any picture to open it large. From there you can read and add comments — the same comments show on the Town Square.
- Painted miniatures can be voted for.
- You can delete your own uploads; the Grand Marshal can delete any.

12 · The Hall of Fame

The roll of legends — past champions and cup winners, grouped by trophy and year. The Grand Marshal keeps it up to date so the deeds of seasons gone by are never forgotten.

13 · The Library & the Herald

The Library

House rules, army restrictions, scenarios and handy links — the documents that keep games fair. The Grand Marshal adds and maintains these.

The Herald

Frequently bellowed questions, plus plain-English explainers for “What is Might?” and “Climbing the ranks”. Start here if something on the site puzzles you.

14 · Your profile & settings

Reach your profile by clicking your name (top-right). It shows your Might, record, rank per army, head-to-head results and any honours awarded to you.

Settings (the cog on your own profile)

- Army you're currently playing — sets your headline rank's ladder.
- Avatar — a portrait for your profile.
- Noble Steed — an optional second picture (a mascot/mount). It only appears if you add one.
- Email notifications — toggle club alerts and the weekly digest on or off.

15 · Email notifications

The League can keep you posted by email. You'll get a message when:

- A member posts availability for a game.
- A new gathering is published.
- Someone accepts your call to arms (this one always reaches you).
- The weekly digest rounds up new photos and battles.

Don't want some of these? Turn them off under Profile › Settings › Email notifications.

16 · For the Grand Marshal (Admin)

Only administrators see the Admin tab — the Grand Marshal's chambers. From here you can:

- Rename the website — the masthead, browser tab and login screen all follow (yes, the running joke lives here).
- Manage members — set a member's army, promote or demote administrators, or remove a member entirely. (Battle history is kept — it's tied to the name, not the account.)
- Set the next gathering — host, place, date and a note for the Town Square banner.
- Army emblems — upload a crest for each army.
- Crowns & honours — crown the Champion of the Old World and award side-titles (league, cup, wooden spoon, custom).
- Hall of Fame — record past champions and cup winners.
- Back up the data — export a JSON copy for safe keeping.

Three titles, kept distinct — Grand Marshal (the admin), Lord-General of the Empire (the top Empire rank), and Champion of the Old World (the league winner). Don't mix them up at the table.

Onward

That's the lot. Enlist, post a call to arms, fight your games, file your reports, and climb the ranks.

Questions the Herald can't answer? Raise them with the Grand Marshal.

May your dice run hot and your line hold.
